A Guide to Planning Your Estate

OLIVE CREST®

Strong Families, Safe Kids

We are pleased to provide you with this Estate Planning Guide. This guide will assist you as you begin the estate planning process for your future. It is a valuable tool that will help you gather information. It will also help you think about how to use your estate plan to provide for your loved ones and support Olive Crest in the prevention and treatment of child abuse.

We hope to help you with important life decisions in an easy to understand, step-by-step manner. After completing this guide, not only will you have thought through how you would like your assets to be distributed when you pass away, you will have considered important topics, including guardianship and medical care.

The guide is short and can be completed in about two or three hours. Take your time reviewing each section. Before you get started, you may wish to view the videos and information on our website, www.olivecrest.org/estate-giving, which will help you understand the estate planning process.

Once you have completed this guide, you will be prepared for an informed and meaningful conversation with your attorney and financial planner regarding your desires for the future. When you have completed this guide, your attorney can use the information to draft an estate plan that will fulfill your wishes and create a lasting legacy. If you do not already have an estate planning attorney, we can recommend a few to you.

It is our pleasure to assist in this estate planning journey as you move forward in creating a plan for your future and securing an impactful legacy. If at any time you have questions or need someone to point you in the right direction, please feel free to contact us. We wish you the best in your planning and invite you to support the children and families in crisis we serve at Olive Crest.

Olive Crest Mission

Since 1973, Olive Crest has transformed the lives of over 200,000 children and their families. We work tirelessly to meet the individual needs of kids in crisis by providing safe homes, counseling, and education for both youth and parents. Our many innovative programs reflect our conviction that strengthening the family is one of the most powerful ways to help heal children. Our 98% stability rate is a testament to the lifelong commitment and unwavering compassion that the Olive Crest family maintains to the children and families we serve even after they have graduated from our programs. Olive Crest serves nearly 4,000 children and families each day throughout the Western United States providing:

Loving Homes

Our first priority is ensuring children in crisis receive a safe, loving home. At-risk youth come from extremely volatile environments and many have been neglected and deprived of basic physical and emotional needs. When surrounded with positive relationships, nurturing, and acceptance, these children can let go of their painful pasts and begin to thrive.

Tools for Success

From taking first steps to getting a first job, Olive Crest equips each of our children with the resources, knowledge, and support they need to accomplish their goals. Big or small, we believe every achievement is important in creating a path to becoming healthy, productive individuals.

Family for Life

Olive Crest transforms the lives of children and families in crisis through the healing power of God, family, and community. As forever part of the Olive Crest family, our children can feel confident in the knowledge that they will always have a support network upon which to rely.

Important Disclosure on Attorneys and Olive Crest

Thank you for completing this guide. It is offered by us to you as an educational service. While we attempt to provide helpful estate and financial background, we are not able to offer specific legal advice on your personal situation. Because you may have specific needs, you will want to contact your own attorney. He or she will be your independent advisor and will have an obligation of trust and confidence to you. With the advice of your independent attorney, you may have a customized estate plan that truly fulfills your unique family, healthcare, estate and planning goals.

Introduction

Planning Your Legacy

Welcome to A Guide to Planning Your Estate. We are very pleased that you are taking steps to protect those you love through an updated estate plan. A plan is important, but an estimated 70% of Americans don’t even have a will. This guide will help you by making the process easy and understandable.

A person may work 40 years to accumulate assets and spend 10 to 20 years conserving that accumulation, but often take two hours or less to plan for distribution of the assets. Through good planning, a wonderful chapter in the book of your life can be completed. However, too many times there has been little planning, or sometimes no planning, and the last chapter of life becomes burdensome for family members.

This guide is designed to help you move forward with a plan that writes a very good chapter in the book of your life. Through proper planning, the legacy of love and care that you leave for your family and friends can be encouraging and even inspiring. We will show you how to prepare your estate plan with a will and also make plans for your potential medical decisions.

A Guide to Planning Your Estate is designed to encourage you to think about how you want your assets to be distributed when you pass away, and to assist you in gathering the information your attorney will need. With this guide, the process will be much easier, less expensive, and a comfort to your family while fulfilling your desires for friends and family.

What are the benefits of an estate plan?

Peace

An estate plan should give you and your family peace of mind, knowing that important and sometimes difficult decisions have been made to care for you and your loved ones. It will also allow you to support Olive Crest and other non-profits in the future.

Protection

An estate plan will protect you in your senior years, provide for your future medical decisions, and protect your family. A good plan can increase your lifetime security and achieve your goals for family and charity.

Provision

A well-designed estate plan makes provision for both you and your family. You can transfer property to the right people, in the right way, at the right time, and at minimal cost.

How do I get started?

We have designed A Guide to Planning Your Estate for your benefit. Feel free to take the time to move through the different sections. You may, however, need to come back later and fill in more detailed information. Most of this information you will know or have readily available.

Four Steps to a Good Estate Plan

1. Write Down What Is Important. The first step in the estate planning process is to gather information about yourself, your loved ones, and the property that you own. You can use this planning guide to collect that information so that you leave the right assets to the right people in the right way.

2. Speak With An Attorney. Talk to a knowledgeable estate planning attorney who can prepare the necessary legal documents, such as a will, trust, or medical directive. Bring this completed planning guide with you for a confidential meeting with your attorney.

3. Understand Your Plan. A good plan will promptly transfer your property to beneficiaries you select. Property can be transferred by a will or trust, a deed, or beneficiary designation. You should review your plan with your attorney so that you understand it and are confident it reflects your priorities.

4. Sign Your Documents. Your plan is not effective until you sign your estate documents. Some states require that you sign your documents in the presence of one or more witnesses or a notary. Your attorney understands these requirements and can help you with this part of the process.

Estate Planning Documents

Let's start by reviewing the three basic estate planning documents—a will, a durable power of attorney for healthcare, and a durable power of attorney for finances.

Last Will and Testament

Your will is a written document, signed by you and typically by two witnesses. In some states, your signature is witnessed by a notary. If your will is accepted by the probate court, it will be used to determine the distribution of your property. Without a will, the court often ignores your desires and follows state law to distribute your assets and appoint guardians for minor children.

With a valid will, you are able to choose who will inherit your property and who will administer your estate as executor or personal representative. If you have minor children, you can choose a guardian. A guardian is someone who will care for your minor children. Your will also may include a trust and you can name a trustee.

A valid will is an essential part of transferring your property at the right time to the right people at the lowest cost. Without a will, your family may encounter increased costs, delays, and unnecessary conflicts. You can provide a great legacy for family with an updated will and a sound estate plan.

Durable Power of Attorney for Finances

When you sign your will, you usually are able to manage your finances and personal affairs. However, that may not always be the case. There may come a time when you are in poor health and not able to manage your finances. During these times, you will want a plan to ensure your property is being cared for and your bills are being paid.

A durable power of attorney for finances is a solution to protect your property and yourself. A durable power of attorney allows you to appoint someone to make financial decisions if you are disabled or incapacitated. If you do not have a durable power of attorney for finances, the court may decide to appoint a conservator. A court-appointed conservator may not understand you or your goals and may not share your values. The court may require the conservator to submit expensive reports and audits, which would be paid for out of your assets.

A durable power of attorney for finances permits you to select the person who will act on your behalf. It enables you to select someone you trust and who shares your values.

Healthcare Directives

There are two types of healthcare directives—a durable power of attorney for healthcare and a living will. In some states, they are combined into one document called an advance directive.

A durable power of attorney for healthcare allows you to select a person who can help make healthcare decisions if you are incapacitated. You may have a serious medical condition and the doctor will need healthcare advice. Your designated holder of a durable power of attorney for healthcare can help you receive high-quality care.

A living will is a second document (in most states) that helps medical personnel understand your wishes for end-of-life care. In your last days and weeks of life, there are a number of decisions regarding care, nutrition, hydration, and resuscitation that need to be made. A living will permits you to recommend your preferred end-of-life care options.

Your Benefits With Other Planning Documents

Living Trust

A living trust holds your property and is managed by you or a trustee you select. You or your selected trustee may own, manage, and control your assets during your lifetime. You may add property to or remove property from the trust at any time. Any trust income is taxable to you.

Custom Estate Plan for Family Business, Investments, or a Child with Special Needs

You may need a custom plan if you own a family business, have substantial real estate holdings, or your child has special needs. A special needs trust will facilitate care of your child by providing resources and directions.

IRA, 401(k) or Other Retirement Plan

Your IRA, 401(k), 403(b), or other retirement plan can be transferred to a person or charity after you pass away. It is transferred through a beneficiary designation form provided by your plan custodian. You may select a primary beneficiary as well as contingent beneficiaries.

Life Insurance

Life insurance involves a written document called a policy, which is a contract. The policy will provide a payout to the policy beneficiaries after the person whose life is insured passes away. Primary or contingent beneficiaries are named on your beneficiary designation form.

Charitable Remainder Trusts

A charitable remainder trust (CRT) is an excellent way to benefit yourself, your spouse, or other family members and provide financial support to your favorite charitable causes. A testamentary CRT through your will or living trust can provide income for your family. After all of the payments are made to family, the remaining trust assets will be given to charity. You may also consider funding a lifetime CRT. You will receive a charitable income tax deduction and trust income payouts.

Charitable Gift Annuities

A charitable gift annuity is a contract involving you and a charity. You make a gift to the charity in exchange for fixed payments for the life of one or two persons. After all payments are completed, the charity receives a gift. A gift annuity funded during life provides you with a charitable income tax deduction and partly tax-free income.

Donor Advised Funds

Many families find that a donor advised fund (DAF) is a simple and efficient way to support the causes they care about. With a DAF, you can time your gifts to favorite charities. You receive an income tax deduction and may decide later on your transfers to favorite charities. Many parents find that a DAF is a useful tool that can encourage philanthropy by allowing their children to recommend future gifts to charity from the DAF.

Charitable Endowments

You can use your will or trust to create an endowed fund after you pass away. We will invest your gift and use the annual income to support your chosen area of our work. Because we are not spending the principal amount of your gift, an endowed gift has the ability to benefit us for many years and it enables you to leave a lasting legacy.

You and Your Family

Please tell us about you and your family. Print names in ink, not pencil. Spell names exactly as you want them to appear in your estate documents. Use full legal names, not nicknames.

Your Executor

Your executor is the person who will manage your estate after you pass away. Because your executor has the power to make decisions about the management of your estate, you should select a trusted person who shares your values. An executor will usually complete eight steps to ensure an orderly transfer of all of your property to the right individuals.

1. Submit your will to the probate court

2. Locate your heirs

3. Determine your estate assets and values

4. Pay bills and the estate attorney

5. Make debt payments

6. Resolve any estate controversies

7. File final income tax and estate tax returns

8. Distribute your assets to heirs

Your Healthcare Representative

There are two primary documents that will provide for your future healthcare decisions. A durable power of attorney for healthcare empowers the person you select to make key decisions for your care. It is called a “durable” power because it is effective even if you are ill and not capable of making your own decisions.

A second document is a living will. If you are in your final weeks or days of life, then decisions must be made about your nutrition, hydration, resuscitation and other critical care. In some states, the living will and healthcare power of attorney are combined into an advance directive.

Online Accounts

Create a plan for your online accounts to help your heirs and executor access them.

1. Compile a List of Online Accounts and Access Information. For your personal, financial, business, and social media accounts, list your usernames, passwords, and account information. If you change the password to an account, be sure to update this list.
2. Protect Account Login Information. Online account security is very important. Do not include your account information in your will. Save the list on a memory drive in your home safe or use a password protection software program on your phone or computer.
3. Select an Executor for Your Online Accounts. You may want to appoint an executor who will have access to your online accounts. Your online accounts, such as a social media company, email provider, or financial institution, may impose certain requirements. Please discuss authorization for your online executor with your attorney.
4. Write Directions for Your Online Accounts Plan. Finally, write a letter to your executor identifying actions for your online accounts. For example, you may ask your executor to download social media account photos and share copies with your family.

Estate Plans

When you are planning your estate, there are several decisions that must be made. Select one of three options for a single person or for a married couple. Enter the information for your selected plan.

Single Person

- 1. Simple Will. With a simple will, you may transfer specific property, then give away what is left (the “residue” of your estate). Your simple will may transfer your property to family members or favorite charities.
- 2. Will with Trust for Minor Children. If you are a single parent with minor children, it will be important to select a guardian and a trustee to manage assets for their benefit.
- 3. Will with “Give it Twice” Trust. As a single person, you may desire to benefit children, nephews, nieces, or other relatives and also assist charity. A “Give It Twice” Trust pays income to family with the remainder to charity.

Married Couple

- 1. Simple Will. If you pass away first, your estate is transferred to your surviving spouse. If you are the survivor, with a simple will you may transfer specific property, then give away the residue of your estate. Your simple will may transfer your property to family members or favorite charities.
- 2. Will with Trust for Minor Children. If you pass away first, your estate is transferred to your surviving spouse. If you are the survivor and have minor children, it will be important to select a guardian and a trustee to manage assets for their benefit.
- 3. Will with “Give it Twice” Trust. If you pass away first, your estate is transferred to your surviving spouse. If you are the survivor, you may desire to benefit children, nephews, nieces, or other relatives and also assist charity. A “Give it Twice” Trust pays income to family with the remainder to charity.

Note to Attorneys

This guide contains three estate plans for single persons and married couples. These are a simple will, a will with trust for minor children and a will with a “Give It Twice” Trust. The “Give It Twice” Trust pays income to family members for life or a term of years with the remainder transferred to selected charities. If it is funded with an IRA or other qualified retirement plan, the “Give It Twice” Trust is a unitrust.

Matching Your Plan and Priorities

It is important for your plan to match your priorities. Whether you are single or married, have children or other loved ones you want to provide for in your estate plan, you will want to consider the question, “What is the ‘right amount’ for an inheritance?”

The “Right Inheritance”

The right amount to leave to children, nephews, nieces, and other loved ones will depend on a number of factors. Here are three guiding principles to help you make a prudent and wise decision.

- 1. Provide an inheritance that meets the needs of family.
- 2. Provide a reasonable level of security to maintain the standard of living for children, nephews, or nieces.
- 3. Avoid leaving an inheritance covering too many “wants and desires,” especially when an heir is not financially mature or would not handle an inheritance responsibly. Too much inheritance may lead to unhappiness. It could create a disincentive for someone to finish school, work hard, and make sound financial decisions.

Some parents have saved, invested, and been careful with their resources. As a result, they have accumulated a significant estate. How can a larger estate be transferred with a positive result for children?

A larger inheritance will be used more wisely if it is distributed over a longer time and at a later age. A lump sum at one time may be unwise. Many younger children who receive a large inheritance at an early age spend it within 18 months.

Instead, consider transferring a larger inheritance over a period of years. A good plan includes a distribution of principal when the parents pass away, income for a period of years, and a second payout of deferred principal.

You may set a target number per child for the inheritance. The total inheritance can then be designed to pass that amount to a child, nephew, or niece. A target number per child is the sum of the principal and income given through the inheritance plan.

You leave an inheritance in the hope you will help the child or other loved one to become a better person. Generally, you can increase the positive impact of an inheritance by stretching it out and setting a target amount.

Simple Will

The estate plan for a single person, including a surviving spouse, can include a simple will that leaves an inheritance for adult children or other family members. With a simple will, you can leave specific gifts to certain individuals, such as children, siblings, nieces, and nephews, as well as charity. You can also include provisions for the rest of your estate to be divided in accordance with your instructions.

Simple Will and Trust for Children

An estate plan that combines a simple will with a trust can protect and benefit your family. Perhaps your heirs are adults, but you have a child who has not reached “financial maturity.” You worry the child might quickly spend an inheritance, or you want to set aside resources to fund their education. A good plan for children is a simple will paired with a trust. The trust can spread out an inheritance and permit the trustee to pay for education, healthcare, and other important needs.

Single Person Estate Plan Three

Give It Twice Trust for Family and Charity

Another popular plan combines a will with a “Give It Twice” Trust. A Give It Twice Trust (often a charitable remainder trust or CRT) can be funded by your will or living trust when you pass away. A CRT usually pays 5% income to children. The trust may pay for life or a term of up to 20 years. After all payments, the balance of the trust will be transferred to your favorite charities.

Married Couple Estate Plan One

Simple Wills for Both Spouses

A married couple will often work with an estate planning attorney who drafts nearly identical estate plans for both spouses. When both spouses have a simple will, it is not uncommon (especially with a first marriage) for the will of the first spouse to leave specific bequests to children and charity, with the surviving spouse inheriting most of the estate. When the surviving spouse passes away, his or her estate plan will distribute property to children and charity. If you have a blended family, you should discuss other options with your attorney to ensure your spouse and both sets of children receive appropriate benefits.

2. _____ % to	_____
3. _____ % to	_____

Married Couple Estate Plan Two

Simple Will and Trust for Spouse and/or Children

An estate plan that combines a simple will with a trust can protect and benefit family. In this case, both spouses’ estate plans include a will and family trust. If a couple has children, the will of the surviving spouse typically makes specific transfers and then funds the trust. This trust can spread out an inheritance if you have an adult child who might squander a large inheritance and may include provision for education and healthcare expenses. If you have a blended family, you should discuss trust income and principal options with your attorney to ensure your spouse and both sets of children receive appropriate benefits.

Married Couple Estate Plan Three

Give It Twice Trust for Family and Charity

Another popular plan combines a will with a “Give It Twice” Trust. A Give It Twice Trust (often a charitable remainder trust or CRT) can be funded by your will or living trust. The charitable trust usually pays 5% income to children. The trust may pay for life or a term of up to 20 years. After all payments, the balance of the trust will be transferred to your favorite charities.

Estate Planning Information

Personal Property Distribution

You can leave certain assets, such as personal property, to loved ones in your will or trust by including a list of instructions naming the person who should inherit a specific item. Personal property could include jewelry, silver, china, furniture, collectables, and other movable property.

Amending a list when it is written in your will or trust can be expensive because it requires you to create an updated estate plan. That is not always practical. For that reason, many states permit you to include a provision in your will or trust that states you will be maintaining a list, separate from your will or trust, leaving specific assets to specific people. If the list is prepared properly, it will operate as part of your estate plan.

This list has several advantages. You can easily update the list as you see fit, such as to change beneficiaries or remove references to property you no longer own or add references to property you recently acquired. For example, if you recently inherited a family heirloom, you can make sure that item stays in the family by updating your list to add the heirloom and name a family member as the person who will inherit the item from you.

To ensure the list is valid, your state may require certain formalities, such as a requirement that you sign and date the list or that you include specific language that makes clear the list is part of your estate plan. In addition, for tax planning and other legal reasons, certain assets are better left to loved ones in other ways. For these reasons, even though this kind of list can provide you with a great deal of flexibility, you should still confer with your attorney periodically about your list and overall estate plan.

Remember Your Pets

Your pets are also members of your family. They depend upon you for their lifelong care.

You can choose who will take care of your pets.

You and your attorney may want to create a pet trust. The pet caretaker may receive trust payouts for food and veterinarian care.

Special Considerations with Respect to Personal Property

As you think about the gifts you want to make, consider the timing of your gifts, who might be most appreciative of your gifts, and how you can be fair in selecting your gift beneficiaries.

Timing

Would you find satisfaction in seeing firsthand how much a loved one enjoys a gift from you? If so, perhaps you would instead prefer to make certain gifts during your life.

Selection

Do you share common interests with one of your children? Would a certain gift evoke fond memories for a loved one? If so, consider which gifts would be most meaningful to each individual.

Fairness

Are you struggling with a fair and equitable way to leave gifts to family? You may want to use a “rotating choice” plan. With this method, you meet with your loved ones and give each person a turn selecting from certain items. At the end of the process, your list would include each person’s selection.

Beneficiary Designation Gifts

A beneficiary designation is a simple and affordable way to make a gift. You can designate a family member or our organization as beneficiary of a retirement, investment, or bank account or your life insurance policy. With a beneficiary designation, you continue to use your account as long as needed, simplify your planning, avoid expensive legal fees, and support the causes that you care about.

To make your gift, contact the person, custodian, or trustee who helps you with your retirement account or insurance policy. He or she will send you a beneficiary designation form. You may complete the form, sign it, and mail it back. When you pass away, your account or insurance policy will be paid or transferred to your selected beneficiaries.

If you plan to leave a gift to charity in your estate plan, please keep in mind that beneficiary designation gifts are among the most flexible of all charitable gifts. Even after you complete the beneficiary designation form, you can take distributions or withdrawals from your retirement, investment, or bank account and continue to freely use your account. You can also change your mind for any reason at a future date. A gift through a beneficiary designation is simple and flexible.

What Legacy Will You Leave?

Take a moment to consider how you or your family would like to be remembered. What will be the causes and values that you would like to preserve and pass on to others? Now consider this your invitation to join the Olive Crest Legacy Society by providing an estate gift to help children and families in the future.

Why You Should Consider Estate Giving

Estate giving allows you to make arrangements for your estate by including Olive Crest in your plans. By leaving a legacy gift to Olive Crest, you ensure your commitment — to end child abuse and find forever families for children — will continue even after your lifetime.

You can give to Olive Crest today, or later through your estate gift that may provide tax benefits and even income — all while making a lasting impact on the lives of children in crisis.

The Olive Crest Legacy Society

Olive Crest's Legacy Society honors, thanks, and recognizes forward-looking donors who have provided an estate gift to benefit the children and families served by Olive Crest. With an estate gift, donors leave a lasting legacy of their commitment to stopping child abuse and preserving the family, "One Life at a Time."[®]

Olive Crest's Legacy Society donors are providing future estate gifts that will transform the lives of children in crisis through the healing power of family. Gifts received both today and in the future through legacy estate giving serve children today and in generations to come. These estate gifts are sincerely needed and deeply appreciated. Olive Crest is eternally grateful to our Legacy Society estate donors.

There are so many ways you can include Olive Crest in your estate planning, such as:

- Gift of stocks and bonds
- Gift of real estate
- Gift of retirement assets
- Gift of life insurance
- Bequests/Wills
- Charitable gift annuity
- And much, much more

A Legacy of Caring

As foster parents to over 35 children, Chuck and Lorraine Clegern have experienced firsthand the wholesome, transformative power of family. Olive Crest partnered with them along the entire journey, helping provide tangible care to their foster children while also ensuring Chuck and Lorraine's needs were met. The couple chose to establish a charitable remainder trust to benefit Olive Crest, extending the healing touch of our community long into the future.

How the Olive Crest Legacy Changes Lives

Olive Crest is one of the few charities that focuses not only on child safety, but on helping families rebuild by breaking negative, generations-old family patterns and behaviors so they can discover better strategies for coping with life's daily struggles. Olive Crest helps ensure the sanctity of birth families and provides firm but gentle guidance for parents and guardians who seek to do better for their children. To further this essential work, Olive Crest needs your assistance to grow our programs.

- Child abuse prevention services
- Homes for children, teens, and aged-out youth
- Adoption placement and support
- Educational support and services
- Independent life skills training and mentoring
- Counseling and mental health treatment
- Family crisis intervention

The Origin of Olive Crest and Its Legacy

When Dr. Don and Lois Verleur provided a home for four teenage girls in 1973, they became inspired by the olive tree in the front yard, and the idea of a family crest. Olive Crest, a name symbolizing "peaceful family," was born and the non-profit was established to help many more children.

Today, 50 years later, Olive Crest has grown to become a leader in the prevention and treatment of child abuse, serving over 4,000 children and families each day throughout the Western United States.

The Verleurs' original commitment to the individual needs of children and families in crisis continues to drive Olive Crest's mission to make a difference, "One Life at a Time."[®]

"Our life has been dedicated to helping the children. This is our humble legacy. We invite you to join us in supporting this legacy of transforming lives by preventing child abuse and educating, treating, and healing children and families."
